

REMOTE INSTRUCTOR-LED TRAINING

Does your staff need and want traditional, classroom-style training but you shy away because of budget-busting travel and lodging costs? Progress has a solution—remote instructor-led training.

58% of surveyed organizations would purchase an OpenEdge Instructor-led course if it were available via live stream instead of onsite.”

Progress remote instructor-led training courses are offered through a convenient, browser-based virtual classroom for an optimal hands-on learning experience. It delivers the student a virtual machine for lab exercises, appropriate workbooks and courseware, and provides an easy environment to consume the material while allowing the instructor to see student work and lend a hand when necessary.

Classes are reasonably priced and are offered in four-hour increments per day for as many days as the courseware requires.

What this means for you:

Get a Classroom Experience with Online Convenience

- Less cost associated with educating your staff on the latest OpenEdge technologies
- Less time away from work for the employee
- Access to expert instructors when a helping hand is needed

We've set the standard for remote instructor-led training by offering expert OpenEdge courses that not only meet your demand for excellence, but also provide an experience designed to meet your time and budget needs without compromising the quality you expect.
